ABSTRACT

This paper embodies to investigate the food and feeding intensity of Chocolate mahseer (Neolissochilus hexagonolepis) with respect to season, maturity stages and length of the fishes. The diet composition of Neolissochilus hexagonolepis during different season were determined based on the analysis of 60 specimens, collected from Jiya Bharali River. The fish are found to be an omnivore with higher feeding preference for plant material than for animal material and high values of its gastro-somatic indices species to be a voracious feeder. The feeding activity of the fishes found to be increased with the increase in size of fish.

Keywords: Chocolate mahseer, food, feeding and Jiya Bharali

INTRODUCTION

Neolissochilus hexagonolepis widely recognized as a sport fish due to its tremendous size and strength facilities but this species is facing tremendous ignorance in terms of its habitat loss and over fishing, and becoming near threatened in IUCN Red list Data book. Originating from the Tawang border district in Arunachal Pradesh, Jia Bhoroli or Jia Bharali is a habitat of many coldwater fishes of species. However, the population of different fish species is in decreasing mode over the years due to various anthropogenic factors. The study of the food and feeding habit of fishes provide keys for the selection of culturable species and necessary information for successful fish farming [1]. The present study deals with food and feeding habits of Neolissochilus hexagonolepis from Jia Bharali River.

She Stoops to Conquer by Oliver Goldsmith

About the author:

- Oliver Goldsmith was a well known Anglo-Irish novelist, playwright, dramatist and poet.
- Goldsmith was known for his novel The Vicar of Wakefield, published in 1766, which Goldsmith had written in 1762.
- He was also known for his pastoral poem "The Deserted Village" (1770).
- The play, She Stoops to Conquer, was written in 1773 and was an immediate success. While clearly taking inspiration from Restoration Comedies, Goldsmith's mission was to render a more natural take on the comedy of his time.

• She Stoops to Conquer is a comedy by Oliver Goldsmith, first performed in London in 1773.
• The play was initially titled as Mistakes of a Night and the events within the play take place in one long night. In 1778, John O'Keefe
